WILL ENLARGE NAVY YARDS

Local Station May Be Equipped to Build Large Battleships

Washington, June 1.—An unsuccessful fight was led by Representative Gardner of Massachusetts today against the section of the naval bill authorizing participation by the United States in the establishment of an international court for the enforcement of peace. The section was retained without a roll call in the house sitting as a committee of the whole.

"I don't believe that this is the most important section of the bill," said the speaker. "The gentleman from Massachusetts wants to know if we would ever arbitrate the Monroe Doctrine. If it were as simple as the Chinese question and others, that brought the speaker to his feet."

"I wouldn't take the time of this committee if I didn't believe that this is the most important section of the bill," said the speaker. "The gentleman from Massachusetts wants to know if we would ever arbitrate the Monroe Doctrine. If it were as simple as the Chinese question and others, that brought the speaker to his feet."

Advocates of greater preparedness than is provided by the naval bill, as reported, won some victories during the day. They succeeded in obtaining appropriations not to exceed $6,000,000 for enlarging the navy yards at Boston, Portsmouth, N. H., Charleston, Philadelphia, Norfolk, New Orleans and Puget Sound for construction. Capital ships would be constructed at the Boston, Puget Sound, Norfolk and Philadelphia yards. An amendment designed to lower the enlistment period in the navy from four to three years and to permit a man to enter the reserve after one year's service was also adopted.

Unsuccessful fights were made for appropriations to take in $1,000 for the improvement of the Mare Island and Brooklyn navy yards.

The Hensley section of the bill would appropriate $200,000 and provide for the appointment of nine men by the President at the close of the European war to enter into negotiations with other countries for the establishment of an international court to enforce peace. It was placed in the bill as a compromise when it appeared that his opponents of a greater navy would not support the committee measure.

Representative Gardner declared that the plan could not be carried out and that if the United States had been a party to such an agreement

In 1914, congress would not have voted to send the country's quota of 600,000 men abroad to aid in the enforcement of peace.

Mr. Gardner wanted to know whether the United States would arbitrate the Monroe Doctrine. If it were as simple as the Chinese question and others, that brought the speaker to his feet.

"I wouldn't take the time of this committee if I didn't believe that this is the most important section of the bill," said the speaker. "The gentleman from Massachusetts wants to know if we would ever arbitrate the Monroe Doctrine. If it were as simple as the Chinese question and others, that brought the speaker to his feet."

"I don't believe that great nations will stand much longer for the policy of piling up armaments on land and sea. This policy has to come to an end, and it will only come to an end by conference. We are the people to make this suggestion. We are the richest nation, we have the largest homogeneous population, and we are not afraid of anybody."

An amendment offered by Representative Hensley of New York looking to the immediate appointment of delegates to an international peace court was defeated by a large majority.

The final vote will be taken on the bill tomorrow afternoon. Most of the Republican members plan to vote with their packed traveling cases near at hand and then rush from the chamber to trains for Chicago.

BIGGEST NAVAL BATTLE OF WAR

Eight British Warships and One Submarine Lost in Mighty Engagement With German Fleet

(Special to The Herald)

Berlin, via wireless at Sayville, L. I., June 2.—The destruction of more than nine British warships by a German fleet in one of the biggest naval battles fought since the war began was announced today by the German Admiralty. The fight took place between the Skagerrack and Horn Riff. Two German men-of-war are known to have been sunk and a third is missing. A cruiser and several small ships were sunk.

The British ships which were sent to the bottom were the battleship Warspite, the battle cruiser Queen Mary and Indefatigable, two armored cruisers apparently of the Achilles type, a small cruiser, the Turbani, Nestor and Alcester (unclassified), a number of torpedo boat destroyers and a submarine.

The battle began on the morning of May 31 and raged for 24 hours. During the day the German cruiser Wiesbaden was sunk by gunfire and during the night fighting the battleship Pommern was torpedoed. The German warship Frau Enloe is missing, and is believed to have been sunk. The balance of the fleet returned to port. This is the first time the German high seas fleet has been engaged. It went forth to give battle as soon as scouts reported the presence of a fleet. Skagerrack, near which body of water the engagement was fought, lies at the northern extremity of Norway and Sweden. It was stated that a large number of English battleships also suffered damage from the German gunfire. Along with others was the large battleship Marlborough. That it was hit by a torpedo was confirmed by prisoners. Several of the German ships rescued many of the sunken English ships' crews. There were only two survivors of the Indefatigable. On the German side the small cruiser Wiesbaden was sunk by gunfire during the engagement. The high seas fleet returned today to German ports.

BURNED UNITED STATES FLAG

Peculiar Ceremony Performed by Members of the Church of Social Revolution.

(Special to The Herald)

New York, June 2.—Bosch White, leader of the Church of the Social Revolution, was today sentenced to 30 days and fined $100 after being found guilty of desecrating the U. S. flag. A number of White's followers were in the court room, among them being many women.

Most of these persons had taken part in a ceremony last night at the quarters of the Church of the Social Revolution where the flags of half a dozen nations, including the U. S., were burned.

White, who acted as his own counsel explained to the court that the ceremony represented the "melting pot" and that his creed represents international brotherhood and the abolition of boundaries.

HUGHES ISSUES A STATEMENT

Declares That No One Is Representing Him at Chicago.

(Special to The Herald)

Washington, June 2.—Justice Charles E. Hughes authorized a statement that there is no man representing him at Chicago or anywhere else in connection with the Hughes boom for the Republican nomination for the Presidency. Lawrence Green, Justice Hughes' secretary said: "Justice Hughes authorizes the following statement: 'It is perfectly well known that the Justice has not representation at Chicago.'"

BALLARD CASE SETTLED.

Comes to a Sudden End in Superior Court at Exeter Today.

The case of Robert J. Ballard against the Hampton and Exeter Electric Company which has been on trial in the superior court at Exeter for the past two days came to a conclusion this forenoon on an agreement between the counsel of both sides. Hughes and Scammon acted for the electric company and Steeper, Brown and Prizel for Ballard. The case opened on Wednesday. Ballard sued for $10,000 damages. The figures in the settlement have not been given out.

FEAR GROWING HUGHES' STRENGTH

Members of "Old Guard" Republicans Seek to Head Off Nomination of the Justice

(Special to The Herald)

Chicago, June 2.—The real effort to curb the constantly growing Hughes' strength began today. Managers of the campaigns of "favorite sons" conferred in an effort to count noses and decide whether they would be head of the nomination of the Justice with out at the same time encountering a Roosevelt movement that would get beyond control.

Upon these conferences depends the entire program of the so-called "Old Guard." They recognize that the situation is very delicate. If Hughes is eliminated most of his strength will go into the Roosevelt camp and this is the one thing that the majority of the old time leaders including the men who four years ago made the nomination of Taft, fear most.

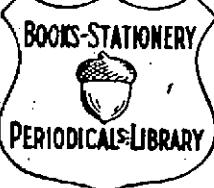

Meanwhile the Roosevelt men are getting ready to do business with the members of the Republican national committee. Their efforts for the present are confined to the work being done by George W. Perkins and John W. McCall, secretary to Col. Roosevelt. They have conferred with a number of the Republican leaders and have made it plain that they will not accept Hughes. He is the most obnoxious of the candidates so far mentioned, they say, and they very frankly claim that if it seems certain that he is to be the nominee they may not be able to control their forces. In the event of Hughes' strength crystallizes by the early part of next week, they say there is a strong possibility that ultra radical elements in attendance at the progressive convention which will meet in the auditorium theatre will take the bit in their teeth and go ahead and nominate the colonel without waiting for the Republicans to show their heads.

WILL NOT GO TO CHICAGO

Col. Roosevelt Says He Will Not Attend Republican Convention.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Jan. 5.—Colonel Roosevelt changed cars here Thursday while on his way from St. Louis to New York and when questioned as to whether he would go to Chicago during the Republican national convention replied decisively: "I will not go to Chicago." He was met at the station by a number of Progressive party leaders.

RALLY FAILS TO OVERCOME P. A. C. LEAD OF FIVE RUNS

Widder Shoe Company Scores Three Runs in the Last Inning of the Game But Lose to the Champions

The fifth inning rally attempted by the Widder Shoe Company in their battle against the P. A. C. last evening in the Sunset League, failed to overcome the five-run lead gained in the first two innings of the game by the champions, the latter winning by a 5 to 3 score. It was a sensational finish and the fans were on their feet, yelling their heads off. It looked pretty dark for the champs for a few minutes and Bill Brackett, acknowledged to be the best little shortstop in the league, came near throwing the game away when he heaved the ball into the bleachers after making a grand-stand stop of Mulloy's hard drive. One man was on base at the time, and a quick return of the ball prevented Cragen from scoring, although the rule governing the overthrow of first having a great deal to do with the play. Cragen had not reached second at the time Brackett started his play and the runner is entitled to but one extra base.

Geisler, the catcher for the W. S. C., was responsible in a great measure for the loss of the game. Holliday held the champs to two hits but Geisler threw the ball into center field two, allowing three of the five runs to be scored on his two errors. No hits were made off Holliday in the two innings he worked. Bill Brackett made one of the most sensational plays seen here in the history of baseball when he pulled a double, unassisted in the second inning. One foot nearer the bag when he made the catch and the play might have been turned into a triple had he had time to throw to Howard to get the runner leaving first.

The W. S. C. were in hard luck as they hit Bill Leary for eight safe singles, for a total of thirteen bases. Skes making both of the long hits, a double and a triple. Mulloy featured with the bat, getting two hits out of three times up and it was his wallop that Bill Brackett killed with his phenomenal double, the ball being scheduled with the center field path.

Halph Brackett was "there" all the time with perfect throwing, preventing the base runners committing any barmy and he succeeded in nailing three of them off the bases. The game puts the two teams into a tie with the Morley Button Company but it will not last long as the Widder Shoe Company is scheduled to play on Monday, and won or lost, the three-team tie will be broken.

The Game.
1st Inning—Mulholland safe on G. Leary's error on a bad throw to first. Letch fanned. Mulholland was out stealing. R. Brackett to W. Brackett. Skes grounded out. G. Leary to Howard. No hits, one error, no runs.
2nd Inning—Ralph Brackett out on strikes. Bill Brackett walked and stole second, taking third on a passed ball. W. Leary flied to Mulholland. Linskey walked and stole second. Howard came to three with a hit to right, scoring Brackett and Linskey and going second on the throw to the plate. G. Leary flied out to Mulholland. One hit, no errors, two runs.

3rd Inning—Cragen singled through short. Mulloy singled, hitting past second. Esterbrook lined to Bill Brackett who touched second, doubling Holliday out, unassisted, on one of the prettiest plays pulled on the local diamond for a good many moons. Geisler fanned. Two hits, no errors, no runs.
4th Inning—Gowen singled to left with a line drive. Charlie Brackett hit to Skes with a bat liner and was safe on his error. Gowen going third. Geisler threw into center field in an attempt to prevent Brackett stealing and both men came home. Woods and R. Brackett fanned. Bill Brackett slammed a hot grounder that Esterbrook missed. He stole second and Geisler again heaved the ball into center. Brackett crossing the plate with the fifth easy run. W. Leary made the third out with a grounder to Esterbrook. One hit, four errors, three runs.

5th Inning—McCallum belted a Texas leaguer to left. Holliday was hit by a pitched ball. He went to sleep off the base and was out. R. Brackett to Howard, after Mulholland had popped to Howard for the first out. Letch was safe when Bill Leary fumbled his grounder, but he was out napping. R. Brackett to Howard. One hit, one error, no runs.

Linskey and Howard both flied to Mulholland, Holliday working in the box in place of Holliday. G. Leary was fanned. No hits, no errors, no runs.

6th Inning—Skes doubled with a long drive to left. Cragen hit in a double play, flying to Linskey who threw to G. Leary for the put-out on Skes. Mulloy hit safe to center field and Esterbrook singled to right. Geisler ended the inning by fanning. Three hits, no errors, no runs.

Gowen flied to Mulloy. G. Brackett was tossed out by Holliday. Woods went down on a grounder. Skes to McCallum.

7th Inning—McCallum walked. Holliday struck out. Mulholland singled to left, Linskey leading the ball. McCallum going third and Mulholland second on the error. Letch fanned. Skes made his second long hit, driving the sphere into deep left for three bases, scoring Mulholland and McCallum. Cragen's head drive was nipped by G. Brackett. Skes fanning. Mulloy hit to Bill Brackett who made a great stop and then threw wild to first, the runners reaching on second and third. Cragen batting for Esterbrook flied to Charlie Brackett. Two hits, three errors, three runs. The score:

CHICAGO EXPECTS $250,000 IN PREPAREDNESS PARADE

Chicago, June 2.—The mighty cry for preparedness lifted in stentorian tones in New York several weeks ago will find an echoing response in Chicago tomorrow. In an unceremonious manner will the voice of Chicago be added to the general nationwide clamor for more adequate national defense.

What probably will be the greatest parade in the history of the United States will be started during the forenoon, continue through the day. Two hundred and fifty thousand persons it is estimated will march to the tune of stirring national airs through flag bedecked streets.

"Beat New York!" That has been the goal of the Chicago managers of the demonstration, and from preliminary aspects it seems assured that the monster procession tomorrow will eclipse Gotham's huge show.

There will be little business at tempted in the downtown districts. Merchants have enlisted whole heartedly in the movement and clerks and bookkeepers from practically every store in the loop will be found in the marching ranks. The same will be true of banks, warehouses, offices, in every place where business is conducted.

Practically every organization, benevolent, fraternal, protective commercial, charitable, athletic, religious—in the city will be represented by delegations.

A hundred bands will be distributed through the long procession. Mayor Thompson with Governor Dunne and city and state officials will review the parade.

Representatives of all the big financial organizations of the city voted without a dissenting voice to parade as one unit in the parade. Between 4,000 and 5,000 men will be in line.

Among the organizations represented were the Bankers' club of Chicago, the Cook County Bankers' club, the South Side Bankers' club, the North Side Bankers' club, the Bank Loan Bankers' Association, the Bond Men's Association and the Chicago Chapter of the American Institute of Banking.

B. C. Sammons, president of the Bankers' club of Chicago, was chosen chairman of the bankers' division of the parade and Arthur Hentley, secretary of the Northern Trust Co., the grand marshal.

Marchers in the parade are asked to carry an American flag, 16 by 21 inches, with a 30 inch stock.

The necessity for preparedness for the parade was brought home to many organizations when they endeavored to engage bands to head their units. They found a famine in bands in Chicago for all appear to have been already engaged for the parade. Outside cities are being called upon to furnish music and scores of bands from Milwaukee, Detroit and neighboring cities will be in line.

Not only in Chicago alone will the voice of preparedness be raised. Many Middle Western towns will hold parades of their own and others will send delegations to those parades in adjacent towns.

South Bend will stage a parade in which it is estimated that 30,000 will march.

BOY CHARGED WITH MURDER

Jealous of Another Suitor, Shot Girl Sweetheart.

Providence, R. I., June 2.—Murder is the charge to which James O'Brien, a one-armed factory errand boy, was called upon to answer this morning when he was arraigned in the Sixth District court.

He was formally hooked on that charge last night and held without bail at police headquarters. There, the police said, he steadfastly refused to change his story that Miss Beatrice T. Walter, his sweetheart, for whose murder he is held, shot herself while examining his revolver, shortly before midnight Wednesday night, in a lonely spot in the Washington Park section of this city.

Jealousy of another suitor, Sidney Larkham of 272 Public street, led O'Brien to quarrel with the girl, the police said, when she told him his attentions to her must cease. This theory was substantiated by the girl's father, William A. Walter of 2 Toronto avenue, who told a Post reporter that Beatrice had announced before leaving the house last night that it was to be "O'Brien's last night with me."

It was disclosed during the police investigation, had warned Larkham to "keep away from my girl or there will be trouble." Both the young men had been calling on the girl for some months past.

Mystery still surrounded tonight certain details of the case. It had not definitely been determined how O'Brien sustained a superficial flesh wound on his abdomen, or how a bullet hole was made in his coat. He told the police that he became frightened after the girl had killed herself, and after firing two shots into the air to call assistance turned the gun on himself.

"I intended to commit suicide the same as Beatrice," he said, "but my belt buckle deflected the bullets which I fired into my stomach." The revolver with all five chambers exploded, was found in a clump of bushes about 30 feet from the scene of the tragedy.

Flag day, June 11, will see another big display of the flags. Have you one for your home?

APPOINTMENT CONFIRMED

L. D. Brandeis Will Occupy Seat on Supreme Court Bench.

Washington, June 1.—By a vote of 47 to 22 the senate late this afternoon confirmed the appointment of Louis D. Brandeis of Massachusetts, made some months ago by President Wilson, to the vacancy in the Supreme Court of the United States. The senate met in executive session at 4:00 o'clock for the final vote when the report of the judiciary committee recommending the confirmation of the appointments and also the minority report in opposition, was presented to the members of the senate. The bitter struggle of the several factions against the appointment of the Boston attorney is at an end and this was practically conceded by the opposition at an early hour today.

The full report of the committee and the minority report of those members in opposition to the confirmation of the appointment is to be made public at once. Much of the opposition to the appointment of Mr. Brandeis to the Supreme Bench was either personal or racial and the charges made against him for his alleged misdeeds in the administration of his business affairs were disproved by him in the hearings before the committee. This was the object of a majority of the members of the committee. The oath of office was administered by Chief Justice of the United States Edward D. White. When Mr. Brandeis becomes a member of the highest judicial tribunal in the country he will be the second Massachusetts man to be on the bench. The other is Associate Justice Oliver W. Holmes. Mr. Brandeis' salary as a member of the court will be $11,500 a year; the salary paid to each of the eight associate justices.

ILLINOIS MEN THREATEN NEW HAMPSHIRE POLITICS

Manufacturers in West Propose to Organize and "Smoke Out" Senator Gallinger Because of the Rublee Case

Chicago, Ill.—Illinois manufacturers are now moving to take a hand in the case of George Rublee of New Hampshire, whose appointment to the federal trade commission was rejected by the Senate on the personal objections of Senator Gallinger. Local manufacturers like Mr. Rublee's work on the commission, and want to see him retained. They believe that Mr. Rublee is so well thought of by business men and manufacturers in general that they can go right into Senator Gallinger's own state and bring enough pressure to bear on him to retain Mr. Rublee. In short, if they receive any encouragement from the administration at Washington, they propose to organize New Hampshire and "smoke out" its senator. They feel entirely justified in taking any such action because Illinois' business is deeply concerned in the personnel of the federal trade commission.

This move is being made by the Illinois Manufacturers Association. Its president, S. M. Hastings, has sent to E. N. Hurley, vice president of the trade commission and Mr. Hastings' predecessor in office, the following telegram:

"The federal trade commission has been the means of establishing a growing confidence between the government and the people engaged in business. We dislike to see the personnel of the commission changed and we wish to know if you and your associates desire us to ask the manufacturers of New Hampshire respectfully to urge Senator Gallinger to withdraw his objections and use his influence for the confirmation of Mr. Rublee."

This query may be described as a "feeler." What follows depends entirely on the response. If it is favorable the move will be laid before the board of directors of the manufacturers' association. It has the hearty approval of its officers.

Explaining further the attitude of the Illinois Manufacturers Association on this matter to a representative of

The Christian Science Monitor, Secretary John M. Glenn said:

"We want to stand by the federal trade commission. Mr. Rublee wants to be fair, and we don't want anything but a fair deal. It is such a relief to have a few men get in office that don't have it in for the man that owns property and that don't play to those that haven't. The man who builds factories hires thousands of people and does a big business is of some benefit to the community. Mr. Rublee can see that, and Senator Gallinger is only blocking the wheels when he holds up Mr. Rublee's confirmation because Mr. Rublee was not for him for senator."

"Senator Gallinger has been a wonderful man in the Senate, but when he has gotten to the point of holding up an appointment of benefit to the country on personal grounds he is destroying some of his usefulness. We don't mind his getting even with Mr. Rublee, but we do object to his doing it at our expense."

"We don't believe either that the business men of New Hampshire will stand for it. We can't appeal direct to Senator Gallinger, but we can to the business men of New Hampshire to 'smoke him out.' Senator Gallinger comes from only a small strip, and this federal trade appointment is vastly larger, affecting the business of the entire country. In this matter Senator Gallinger should represent the country."

When asked how the Illinois Manufacturers Association proposed to approach the business men of the eastern state Mr. Glenn told of a similar strike in an eastern city. "Suppose we take a referendum of the business men and industries of New Hampshire," he said, "it is an easy thing to do. Our interests are very near the same the country over. They'll respond and we'll defeat Senator Gallinger with so many letters from his state he won't know what he is doing. The first thing Senator Gallinger knows he will know a move in New Hampshire that will keep his state organized."

fore finds itself between the horns of a dilemma. Higher prices, better profits and a smaller market; low prices, the present market, and next to no profit. May I make the suggestion that probably you are seeking a purely legal remedy for a problem which is purely economic."

Dr. Pratt called attention to other difficulties with which the industry has to contend, and also criticized some of the prevailing methods of carrying on the lumber business, especially the marketing methods. He then brought to the delegates' attention the value of foreign trade as a stabilizer in any industry. "The solution, perhaps I might more modestly say, a partial solution of the difficulties of the lumber industry is to be found in a larger market for lumber. If larger and broader markets for lumber can be found it will enable our lumber manufacturers to increase profits without lowering production."

"Probably most of the lumber manufacturers of the United States have never exported a stick of lumber. They have sold for exportation, but they have not exported. There is no reason why they should know conditions in foreign markets. There is no reason why they should be anything but ignorant of the requirements of foreign markets, nor is there, gentlemen, any reason why they should get any very large portion of the business."

"As a matter of fact, much of the export business in lumber from the United States has been done by lumber brokers, and many of those lumber brokers are intermediaries. They buy lumber from the American lumber manufacturer, usually on a commission basis, and sell it to an importer in a foreign country—an importer who handles not only American lumber, but also lumber from Norway, from Russia, and from other parts of the world."

Is it any wonder then that those importers in foreign countries do not push American lumber, and do not know about some of the best varieties of American lumber? The point which I wish you to take away with you if you take nothing else today is that there is nothing subtle or mysterious about foreign trade; that foreign trade is conducted through exactly the same fundamental business principles as domestic trade. If you are not familiar with the requirements of foreign markets and if you do not use business-like methods in getting those markets, you cannot expect to develop an export business. To handle the business in the way in which it has been handled heretofore is disastrous not only for the present but for the future."

The speaker then referred in particular to some of the chief markets for American lumber. "Consider for a moment what the markets of Europe have to offer," said Dr. Pratt. "Great Britain alone imported in 1913 over $160,000,000 worth of lumber and timber, and in the first year of the war over $120,000,000 worth. The United States supply only about one-fifth or one-sixth of this. It is not to be thought that we do not have competition there, for Scandinavia, Russia, and other countries are constantly meeting the demand for rough and dressed lumber in Great Britain and Southern Europe. The trouble is that we have been acting as if we had no competition. Our lumber has sold in Europe, but it has sold itself. Recently with the cutting off of supplies from Riga and the rest of Russia, Southern Europe has turned to this country and Canada for its lumber. Have you taken any steps to make this trade permanent? Have you representatives or an organization on the ground prepared to take advantage of every new opening?"

"Consider the condition of the trade in South America! Argentina is one of the largest and wealthiest of all the South American countries. The national wood of Argentina, however, will never supersede American wood for general purposes, and the American lumber manufacturer can look to Argentina as a permanent market for his products. The initial price of lumber laid down in the River Plate country is more than twice as much and for some ports three times as much as the first cost in the United States. Similar prices are obtained in markets such as Rosario, Argentina, and Montevideo, Uruguay. American methods of exporting lumber to South America are almost as varied as they are inefficient."

A STRANGE THING

It is, that more people do not realize the true economy of having footwear mended by experts. Why suffer needlessly with stiff new shoes that hurt when you can have your comfortable old ones made to look like new and to give you good service for a long time, if you bring them to us for work in shoe repairing?

Give our careful work in this line a fair trial. We get all orders out promptly.

div. All manner of trade combinations are practiced. Much lumber is handled by American exporters of general merchandise. Brokers specializing in lumber in the United States export to South America as a sideline, and there are other methods in vogue, but none of the lumber manufacturers in the United States is directly represented."

The three classes of lumber at present shipped from the United States to the River Plate are hardwoods, yellow pine and white pine. To put the proposition succinctly, the difficulty in the hardwood trade is that there are no standard grades and a chaotic condition prevails which makes an order for lumber from the United States always a speculation—a pure gamble that the goods ordered will be delivered. The difficulty in the yellow-pine trade is that there is such a loose system of measurement that importers are never sure of getting the amounts they ordered and paid for, and the trade is marked by a continual series of claims and adjustments or losses, which have anything but a soothing effect on relations between buyer and seller. The difficulty in the white-pine trade is again the question of grades. The mixing of good, bad and indifferent lumber in a single shipment that is all supposed to be good lumber. Each of these difficulties requires separate action by the associations and firms concerned in the production of the different kinds of wood. The Bureau that I represent has already taken up the matter with the proper associations. I am happy to say that they have almost without exception shown a desire to take such action as may be practicable to eliminate these serious abuses."

"Our Special Agent, Mr. Roger E. Simmons, who has recently studied the situation in South America, has carefully tabulated the various white-pine grades by the dealers and importers in Argentina, and he finds the widest differences between the offerings that are supposed to be of the same grade. Naturally this also leads to a lack of definiteness at this end of the line. It is quite in order I think for a Government Bureau to take the initiative in correcting a condition of this kind. We have accordingly proposed the following plans:

"Each lumber association interested shall select a suitable number of samples of lumber that fit our standard grades, and ship these samples to the River Plate. Each association shall also appoint a representative and these four or five men shall form a commission to go to Buenos Aires accompanied perhaps by a Government representative from the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce and the United States Forest Service. There they will arrange for a convention of River Plate importers and with the lumber samples on hand will determine definitely the exact limits of each River Plate grade and shall interpret them in terms of our own grades. The description of each grade will then be written up and copies will be sent to every lumber manufacturer in the United States interested. It will then be up to your white-pine association to adopt some system of inspection and certification, so that the River Plate importers can depend absolutely on the certificate issued by the association."

"In the hardwood trade the question of grades and standards is also prominent. Here, however, there are no recognized grades in the River Plate and every importer makes his own arrangements with the firm from which he buys. Here the remedy seems to lie in action on the part of the hardwood associations and this I would urge them to do as soon as possible. I understand that they already have efficient inspection bureaus for inspecting establishments of domestic lumber. They also have certain standard grades well known in this country which serve the purposes of domestic trade satisfactorily. There is no reason why these grades could not be adapted for export trade to the River Plate and made standard there. In order to bring this into effect it will be necessary to do two things. One is to adopt special names for the grades, as those in use here will probably be misleading. The other is to establish an efficient system of inspecting and marking so that when the Argentine importer once understands that the grade is established and understands just what it covers, he can also be assured of getting that grade when he orders it. I suggest that the hardwood dealers and manufacturers get together and adopt a set of names to attach to present domestic grades, and that they arrange for inspection of every shipment of hardwood going to the Plate to see that it comes up to the standard and for giving a certificate of inspection stating that it does so."

"Now there is also, trouble in the Plate over measurements. It is the more to be regretted that among the most frequent complaints heard with reference to American lumber—and particularly with reference to southern yellow pine is that the cargo invoiced by the American exporter is short; that the actual amount of lumber received is less than that paid for. Our special agent in order to ascertain the extent of the discrepancies claimed in southern yellow pine cargoes took copies of the inspection records of principal importers. No one can examine the facts which he has submitted without being deeply impressed with the gravity of the situation. The yellow pine industry through its associations should take up the matter, and if, for their own personal interest, it is for the sake of their national pride and in defense of the ethics of the industry, they should see to it that the present system is without fault, or, if some better method of making and guaranteeing methods for export to the Plate be arranged on a basis on which its efficiency will be unquestioned."

"If you will allow me I will suggest that the appointed associations make provision for measuring shipments at each port of departure in the United States, and that some method be adopted whereby such measurements shall not be the rather loose estimates that prevail at present, but shall be as close and accurate as the River Plate measurements. Then make it clear to all buyers in Argentina and Uruguay that such measurements can be made, and what is very important, that a certificate of the association showing that the measurements are accurate can be depended on absolutely to mean what it says."

"Having talked over the three great problems that confront the American exporter of lumber to South America, I want to make one more constructive suggestion before I close. Why not have in every important center of South America an agency of this association that would constantly keep its eyes open for any opportunities that may arise—and if the opportunity does not happen to arise, would go out and make an opportunity? Why not have a score of offices each of which is constantly demonstrating to South America how to use wood to the best advantage? They do not know now what wood can do. They are using steel and concrete and plaster and a dozen other things where wood would not only be more stable, but cheaper. It is up to you to start this educational campaign and the field has been so long unworked that I have no doubts results will begin to show comparatively soon. These projects are not of much value unless intelligently followed up. Why not follow them up now and keep on following them up? I hardly need to say that the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce stands always ready to cooperate fully and freely in this work."

"It is unnecessary for me to go into greater detail with reference to the various world markets. The same general facts obtain, namely, poor marketing methods by the American producer, his lack of information, and his lack of knowledge of the export business and of foreign markets, the constant complaint that goods are not up to standards, and that the grades are not what they ought to be, constant complaint of hard terms and short shipment."

"These are the characteristics of the American export lumber market. These are the characteristics of a market which is poorly organized. These are the characteristics of a trade which is conducted on bad business lines. "Let me emphasize in closing," said Dr. Pratt, "that the markets of the world are open to us. The stable and well-organized foreign trade is one of the things vitally necessary to the lumber industry is to be put on its feet. If the lumber industry expects to pay its overhead charges, if it expects to meet its carrying charges, it must find more efficient marketing methods at home and abroad, and must find larger markets for its products."

Stated in Brief
Great instability has prevailed in the lumber industry—an instability that has made losses and not profits the order of the day.

ROMANIA SECRETLY BOUND TO GERMANY.

Bucharest, June 2.—The relations between the Allies and Roumania are becoming extremely strained as a result of the commercial treaties which the Roumanian government signed with Germany, Austria-Hungary and Bulgaria. Russia is assuming a threatening attitude and England and France also have protested against the alleged political character of the treaties.

Prime minister Radulescow has assured the ambassadors of the Entente powers that Roumania has entered no alliance with Germany and Austria-Hungary and intends to remain neutral but in well informed circles it is expected that the Roumanian army will cross the Russian border and occupy Bessarabia should German success continue.

This is said to be the real object of the pact with the Central Powers.

LUMBER PROBLEM IS OF VERY GREAT IMPORTANCE

Washington, D. C., June 1.—In an address before the National Lumber Manufacturers Association in Chicago Thursday morning, Dr. Edward Irving Pratt, Chief of the Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, Department of Commerce, discussed at length the problems with which the American lumber industry has had to contend in recent years and submitted to the delegates a number of important constructive suggestions.

"In the first place," said Dr. Pratt, "there is no question that the lumber business as it has been carried on in the last few years has been characterized by a great deal of loose thinking—thinking that can only be termed 'foggy' and entirely inadequate. In their search for a way out it seems to me that our lumbermen have too often entirely missed the point. I have several instances in mind, one of them relates to recent hearings of the Federal Trade Commission at which the representatives of the lumber industry appeared. They wanted to organize combinations, one of the objects of which would be to regulate production when such regulation seemed necessary, and thus to eliminate the cut-throat competition."

The National Flag Day.

President Wilson's proclamation calling upon the people of the United States to suitably observe as Flag Day June 14, the anniversary of the day on which the Stars and Stripes were adopted as the emblem of the Union, should meet with a ready and cheerful response from the people of the country.

But if the observance of the day is to be what it should be and have the effect that the president and every other patriotic citizen desires it must be more than superficial. It must reflect what the president calls "our thoughtful love of America." He alludes to "forces within and forces without that seem likely to draw us away from the happy traditions of united purpose and action, of which we have been so proud."

And it will be well to remember that there are forces within as well as without which threaten the peace and welfare of the country. The operation of these internal forces may not mean war in the literal sense, but they mean strife between classes, discontent and unrest, suspicion that selfish interests are finding too large a place in the work of government, and a lack of the happiness and serenity to which the people of such a country as this are entitled.

There is no reason to question the unity of our people against any foreign foe. They would stand like the Rock of Gibraltar against invasion by a foreign power. They should so stand against the invasion of their rights and privileges by forces at home which do not hesitate to make one class pay tribute to another.

We may well reflect that patriotism does not consist in shouting for the flag and standing up when the Star Spangled Banner is sung or played. Of what avail is it to parade and shout for the colors when we know that corrupt forces in government are working to rob the people of the substance of liberty, leaving them but the empty form? That there are such forces every intelligent man knows, and these are the forces which mean the greatest danger to the people of the United States.

The anniversary of the adoption of the American flag may well be enthusiastically observed at this time of world stress, but if the observance is to mean what it should mean it must be something more than flying the colors and making a big noise. Attention must be paid to the dangers within, which in spite of the world commotion are the greatest the country faces, and whatever is done should adequately express what the president so aptly terms "our thoughtful love of America."

Dimes, quarters and half dollars of new designs are to be minted after July 1. It is to be hoped the designers have been more fortunate in their work than the man who produced the buffalo nickel. There is no particular fault to be found with the present coins, and this change, like too many others, is apparently merely for the sake of change.

The government is finding the collection of the income tax very expensive, owing to the large number of "patriots" who are shouting for preparedness and endeavoring to evade their share of the cost. But every such man should be hunted down even though the cost be double the amount of the tax.

Suspected travelers about to leave Germany are washed in lemon juice to remove any invisible writing there might be on their cuticles. The authorities and people of this country occasionally make use of the lemon in their public affairs, but in an entirely different way.

Reports from various quarters are to the effect that enlistments for preparedness parades are more general and enthusiastic than enlistments in the army and navy. But there is reason to believe there would be no lack of the latter if a real pinch should come.

London is complaining of the high price of meat and, while there is more than one cause for this condition, the consensus of opinion appears to be that the American packers are the chief cause. Same here.

There is real pathos in the thought that in many places it is now considered advisable to have hospital tents along the line of march on Memorial Day, with surgeons and physicians accompanying the veterans.

While preparedness is at the front why would it not be well to organize the reckless automobilists of the country. They would constitute a large army, and a terrible one to move against.

Carranza wants to know why the American troops are remaining in Mexico, and, so far as the capture of Villa is concerned, it may be that his curiosity is entitled to respect.

Large shipments of horses from this country to the warring nations show that the automobile has not yet replaced the horse in the operations of the field.

State headquarters of the New Hampshire Equal Suffrage Association were formally opened at 92 North Main street, Concord, on the evening of June 1. The attendance was large and interesting speeches were made by the following members of the state executive board, Miss Martha S. Kimball, Mrs. Whittier Churchill, Mrs. Vida C. Webb, Dr. Inez F. Nason, Mrs. Robert D. Johnston, Mrs. Charles P. Bancroft, Miss Harriet L. Huntress of the advisory council, Mrs. Hoague, vice president of the Concord Equal Suffrage League, and Mrs. Foster, also of the Concord League.

Of much interest to those present were Mrs. Arment White's desk and chair which have been loaned to the association. Mrs. White who recently died at the age of 95, was the first president of the New Hampshire Equal Suffrage Association, when it was formed in 1908.

Governor McCall in New York for Honors.

Boston, June 2.—Governor Samuel W. McCall leaves Boston tomorrow for New York where on Wednesday he will receive an L. L. D. from Columbia University. The conferring of this degree will prevent the Governor from attending the National Republican convention at Chicago at its opening. The job of looking after his interests as a possible candidate for the presidency will be in charge of Charles S. Baxter who will leave here with the state delegation on Sunday, and National Committeeman Estabrook of New Hampshire, who will be in "candidate row" long before the convention opens. Governor McCall will leave New York for Chicago on Wednesday afternoon.

Bishop Edwin Holt Hughes, the newly appointed Methodist Episcopal church head for New England, who in the west delivered a most stirring address for preparedness, is in Boston with Mrs. Hughes at present and is looking for a suitable residence. Bishop Hughes at present is a resident of San Francisco and both he and Mrs. Hughes are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Mudge of Malden, the latter being a sister of the Bishop's wife. The Bishop favors Billy Sunday and his campaign. He believes that Sunday is a potent factor for much good and expresses the belief that Boston will be better for having Sunday come here to preach.

The first section of the trading stamp bill as amended by the house stands as follows: "No person, firm, or corporation shall, in connection with the sale of any article or any merchandise whatever sell, give or deliver any trading stamps, coupons or similar devices, whether such trading stamps, coupons or similar devices are or are not attached to or form a part of the package or merchandise sold. This section shall apply to a device which entitles the holder thereof when such device is presented as one or in connection with others, to a cash premium or property premium furnished directly or indirectly by anyone other than the vendor of the article or merchandise sold, but shall not apply to stamps, coupons or similar devices, issued by the vendor directly to the purchaser in which no one other than the vendor and purchaser has an interest and which are redeemable directly by the vendor in this commonwealth either in cash or as a credit or rebate upon the price of articles or merchandise purchased or to be purchased by the same vendor within this commonwealth."

Governor McCall has submitted to the executive council two re-appointments as follows: David M. Wilcox of Lee to be medical examiner of Berkshire county, and Anna M. Bancroft of Hopkinton to be a member of the free public library commission. The confirmation of the appointments went over for one week. The council in accordance with the recommendation of the pardon committee committed to a minimum of four years the six year state prison sentence imposed in September, 1913 on William H. CURRENT OPINION

Russian People Want Closer Relations With the United States.

The people of Russia have the warmest feeling toward the United States. You know that we have formed in Russia a society of Russian-American rapprochement for the purpose of advocating closer relations between the two countries. I am sure in making the statement that the United States is the most popular country in Russia.

There is a magic halo about the name of the United States. America is a sacred symbol to the Russians.

I am inclined to think that Russia is ready for a treaty with the United States. Russia has consented to settle the Jewish problem and the passport question. I think it is only a matter of time when the Jewish question will be settled and the obstacle to the prospective Russian-American treaty is abolished.—By Joseph L. PEOPLE and THINGS

It is understood that the Elks will simply have their official Flag Day program, and for the public celebration they will join with the citizens in the preparedness celebration contemplated for July 14th. The final decision will not be made known until after the regular meeting next Thursday evening. Their Flag Day celebration has been one of more than local interest, but this year they propose to co-operate with the citizens in the proposed July 6th celebration.

The rush on the Army and Navy building has resulted in the necessity of laying the corner stone ahead of the scheduled time. A public observance of this event was postponed and will be combined with the dedication. The corner stone was laid this afternoon in the presence of the committee and some naval and city officials.

Captain Marden of the U. S. M. C. A. it is understood, will change his team about for the next game and this will strengthen the nine to a great extent. Those who are said to be judges of baseball predict that the U. S. M. C. A. boys will make it exceedingly lively for the leaders before the season is over.

Attention has been called in these columns repeatedly to the apparent neglect of flying the American flag from the local public buildings. Some one in authority ought to see that this is done rain or shine. There ought to be patriotism enough in this ancient city of ours to make it unnecessary to call attention to any apparent neglect of this kind. Portsmouth should be first in standing for the flag. Her history is so interwoven with that of American heroes that our people ought to have the flag first in their minds. Whose job is it to see that this neglect is corrected?

If Portsmouth is willing to do what is required this city will see another large industry at an early date. The concern is anxious to locate somewhere in New England, but first, requires a building, which they would be willing to pay rent for from year to year.

Some of the sleepers on the Greenland line are being hauled to Newcastle for use in building the rifle range which has been planned by Manager Priest of The Wentworth. He has already heard from many prominent lovers of rifle shooting from various parts of the country who are coming here.

The most popular custom in other cities for graduation classes in high schools and other schools to exchange photographs, Mr. Ira St. Clair of the St. Clair studio, tells me has been adopted by the local high school. Members of the classes and their parents find it interesting to look back on the faces of their children and associates in their school days.

MINNESOTA STUDENTS HOLD COMPULSORY TRAINING CAMP

St. Paul, Minn., June 1.—About 1,100 cadets at the University of Minnesota pitched their tents at Fort Snelling, St. Paul, today for the first compulsory training camp ever held by students in a department of military science and tactics of a land-grant college.

The encampment will last until next Thursday, June 8, when the cadets will return to Minneapolis and go through their final exercises of the year at the head of the commencement day parade on the university campus.

To make up for the extra amount of time spent during the two weeks' army life in military training, the student is excused during the first semester of the sophomore year from the drill requirement. Indications at the close of school this year were that few would take advantage of the chance to rest.

The Minnesota plan is not an outgrowth of any new sentiment for preparedness. It was agitated three years ago by the president of the university and was always warmly approved by the commandant of cadets. A bill fathered by the University providing for furnishing equipment and tents for the cadet camp by the War department was introduced by Senator Knut Nelson and passed.

BOAT RACING ON THE RIVER JULY 4

Yacht Club Starts the Ball Rolling for a Part of the Celebration on That Date.

The Portsmouth Yacht club is the first organization to come out with something in the way of helping a celebration on July 4. The club intends to conduct a rowing race on the river for the boat crews of the ships that will be at the navy yard on that date for which a handsome cup will be given to the winners.

This organization certainly has the spirit and stands ready at all times to assist in any way a public celebration for Portsmouth, especially on the occasion of our big national holiday.

THE DARTMOUTH-PORTSMOUTH CLUB

The Dartmouth-Portsmouth Club held its final meeting of the college year Thursday evening at Hanover. The following officers were elected for the ensuing college year: President, Harold B. Wendell, '17; vice president, Chester L. Conlon, '18; secretary-treasurer, Philip H. Sanderson, '19.

This meeting brings to a close the most successful year since the club was established. The fourth annual ball attended. During the Christmas vacation, through the untiring efforts of Russell Leavitt, the retiring president, the club succeeded in organizing the Dartmouth Alumni Association of Portsmouth and vicinity.

During the Easter recess the Club gave an informal Dartmouth night in the assembly hall of the High school with S. Ralph Walkingslick, '18, a Cherokee Indian student, as the principal entertainer. Stereopticon views showing the life at Hanover and the activities of the Dartmouth Outing Club and winter carnival were shown.

The Club has also entertained Portsmouth people on different occasions. In December, the Portsmouth boys, delegates to the New Hampshire Boys' Convention, were entertained for a period of three days. In May the championship Portsmouth High Debating team was entertained for two days. Also Portsmouth boys playing on the New Hampshire college and Tilton Seminary baseball nine were the guests of the club. Social meetings have been conducted for the members and the college paper, "The Dartmouth," has been sent to the local high school library. This has been the custom in former years.

The Portsmouth Club is composed entirely of local boys attending Dartmouth and is now one of the most prominent of the thirty sectional clubs at the institution.

Prospects are exceedingly bright for another successful year with the club. To date, six Portsmouth boys have signified their intentions of entering the freshman class next fall and several more are also considering matriculating at Dartmouth.

The club takes this opportunity to thank the Portsmouth people who have aided in making their local achievements the past year a success. Also it wishes to thank again John H. Bartlett, '34, who generously tendered the boys and their guests a box party at the Colonial Theatre, April 7, 1916.

eat soldier's fare and go through the routine of drill in the morning and guard mounting at night? Just as is done in regular army camps. Daily practice on the rifle range is given each member of the corps.

The Minnesota plan of encampments would save the cadet six months of training in the regular army camps. If a call should come for him to go to war. Let the student finish the second camp and the third semester's drill on the campus, call him to the colors, and in less than a week he would be able to go to the front. A green recruit would be required to drill at least six months before he could be sent to the firing line. The cadet will be able to hold a non-commissioned officer's job immediately after leaving his second camp.

PERKINS TENDERS OLIVE BRANCH TO C. O. P.

Shakes Hands with Chairman Hilles of Republican Committee in Chicago and Declares "Americanism" is the Issue.

Chicago, June 1.—George W. Perkins, brought the olive branch to the C. O. P. again today. The Bull Moose chief, after greeting Chairman Hilles of the Republican national committee at the Blackstone, announced that the Progressives will stand on the statement they outlined in January, indicating they will support any candidate—not necessarily—who stands for progressive principles. "I see in the papers and I heard on the train while en route here, that a lot of bitter feeling has been worked up between the camps of the different candidates," Perkins said.

"This is unfortunate. As far as the Progressives are concerned, we will approach the conventions in the spirit we indicated in our January statement. This is pre-eminently the time when the convention should be for Americans first."

"I read in the papers that Carranza, in his note to Washington yesterday, had accused the Wilson administration of duplicity and of misleading the Mexican government. It occurs to me that this was the first time that any foreign power had dared accuse Uncle Sam of treachery."

"Our prime object should be, with all possible speed and certainty, to stop this sort of thing and restore our good name."

Perkins Thanks Hilles

As Perkins entered the Blackstone he shook hands with Chairman Hilles of the Republican committee. Senator Reed Smoot of Utah, one of the old guard, and several other Republicans.

They chatted informally and laughingly expressed hopes of getting together.

"Thanks for your statement regarding the Republican platform the other day," Perkins said to Hilles.

In this statement Hilles had announced the Republicans were for Americanism and preparedness and that this was the big issue. Hilles told interviewers today that he believed the Progressives and Republicans would get together.

"I don't think they have changed," he said. "I believe they were absolutely sincere in their January statement. I have not been assured of this fact by Col. Roosevelt, but I do believe the colonel's followers would accept another man if necessary. But, of course, they want the colonel."

No Compromise Candidate

Hilles branded as absolutely false a report that the national committee would get together today on a compromise candidate.

"We'll naturally talk about things whenever we get together," he said. "But we are not going to pick anybody for any office."

Senator Smoot of Utah was equally optimistic.

"There are 985 delegates," he said. "All are absolutely free to vote for anybody they choose. There are no strings tied to anybody. And anybody they nominate will win."

Perkins' arrival was to characterize the actual beginning of the Progressive pre-convention activities.

Until Perkins has conferred with Oscar King Davis, secretary of the Progressive national committee, and with other Bull Moose leaders and a definite plan of the Progressive convention has been announced. C. O. P. candidates will continue to worry, it was admitted today.

There were intimations from many sources that Progressives will stand pat on Roosevelt. Before leaving New York yesterday for Chicago, Perkins emphasized that he is for Roosevelt and refused to talk of a compromise candidate.

Under present plans the Progressive convention will run its sessions practically parallel to the Republican program. Preliminary work is to be gotten out of the way June 7 and 8, and nominations made on Friday, June 9. It was generally believed today, however, that the Progressive convention would choose one of these two alternatives.

Nominate Roosevelt at once and wait and see what the Republicans do, or "Stall" until the Republican convention nominates a candidate, and if he is satisfactory, nominate the same man if he is not satisfactory nominate Roosevelt with a third ticket in the race.

Perkins was expected to confer today with leaders of the Roosevelt non-partisan league and with George J. Meyer, director of the Roosevelt Republican Association.

"THE LIGHTNING CONDUCTOR" DISCOVERS NEW ENGLAND

Newest Novel by the Williamsons Celebrates the Beauties of this Region of America

A story which probably is the most attractive picture of New England presented in years is "The Lightning Conductor Discovers America," at least, advance sheets of the book indicate this. This story is the latest novel of that gay and sparkling pair of authors, C. N. and A. M. Williamson, published Thursday by Doubleday, Page and Company, of Garden City, L. I. It is a tale of mystery, adventure, romance and travel. Just as England played a part in "Set in Silver," by the same authors, Spain, in "The Car of Destiny," and Holland in "The Chaparral," so our Eastern States become the setting for this story of a motor tour through New England and adjoining states.

The Williamsons have celebrated in many pages of this book the beauties of New England. Every spot dear to the lovers of this region and not a few quaint and lovely towns that are only names, if so much as that, to many Americans, will very likely take on fresh interest to many people because of the mystery and romance of "The Lightning Conductor Discovers America." The story is told in the form of letters by the various characters. Molly Winston (as he is now) writes from New London, to Lord and Lady Lane, of the New England trip of her gay and sunny party.

The following excerpts from the book show the entertaining style in which the story is written, and the passages of description are exceptionally fine and true to life.

"I am thrilled with New England! It has got into my blood which is of the south. Why do we—you and I—and the rest of us—dash over to Europe before we're old enough to see much of and appreciate our own country!"

"I didn't quite realize, even with my first warm glow of admiration, all that New England meant, in a concrete way. I realized the beauty, the individual charm, the historic interest, but now I am beginning to put them together in a bouquet where one flower sets off another. Oh dear, I wish that not quite so many things had happened before our day! It would have been easier to sort them about one hundred and fifty years ago. Yet, a hundred and fifty years ago there wouldn't have been an Emerson, a Thoreau, a Hawthorne, a Longfellow, a Whitier, a Bryant, a Lowell, or an Oliver Wendell Holmes, to say nothing of half a dozen others I've too excited to recall before they lived and embowered the tapestry of life with their lovely thoughts—almost the difference between traveling on a gray day and in clear sunshine. For New England belongs to these philosophers and poets just as much as it belongs to the Indians and Puritans and soldiers of the Revolution."

"Much of our way was like a private park. Bigger than any king or emperor in Europe ever owned, there are miles of trees with blue, misty vistas hanging between, like painted gauze curtains, we flashed suddenly out to open spaces purple red with fireweed, and vast, flat stretches of twenty marshland swept with ideas of colour, rainbow streaks of amethyst and rose-tint. The Sound was within sight and smell. Salt perfume of ocean mingled with spicy fragrance from the abundant bayberry flung in thick ripples masses upon bare, gray rock and azure velvety of the sea, stray among the marshes, made strong-growing water plants give out a ting that was tonic to our nostrils."

"You may think such a picture could be sketched in colour along the coast line of almost any country, but if so, you will be mistaken, for all this, as we saw it was extraordinarily individual and American. Why, exactly, I can't define. The cedars crowning the hills could be only American cedars. The ponds crusted with water-lily pads and ringed round with young trees like children dancing hand in hand seem to sing: 'We are of New England!' And even the apple trees—immense domed tents of green and pink brocade—are like colonial ladies dressed in their hospitable best."

"In spite of the great prosperity nowadays and the signposts which tell you everything you can possibly want to know about directions, it is easy to read the faded print of that serial romance of generations. Old houses tell it, old names tell it, and the very modernness of the new things emphasizes the heroic drama of the past."

WHAT WAS IT, A SIDE SHOW OR A SHOW DOWN?

In an editorial paragraph, Thursday morning, appeared: "No low-necked waists, no short sleeves, no thin waists, no low shows." It should have read, "no low shows."—Kennebec Journal.

M. J. GRIFFIN & SON

BATTLE AT VERDUN GREATEST IN HISTORY

London, June 1.—Never in the history of the world has there been a battle approaching that of Verdun, now in its 101st day, either in intensity in the number of guns and of men involved in the losses suffered or one fought for so shallow an objective—a bauble for a Crown Prince to wear.

Week after week tons upon tons of metal have been hurled at the French positions. Dense masses of German troops, succeeding denser masses of troops, have followed in the wake of the shells and dashed themselves for the most part uselessly, against a stubborn resistance. A trench taken here and there has marked a slow and laborious progress toward some point of advantage held by the French, but still no vital link in the French armor has been broken. Paris says that the German surge of Sunday, Monday and Tuesday have netted the enemy little, notwithstanding that the offense in guns and men represented the German maximum effort on this front. The center of the bitterest fighting has shifted somewhat to the southwest of the front between Cumieres and Dead Man's Hill, to the west of the Meuse, where the Germans have scored most of their recent gains. Dead Man's Hill or the ground in its immediate vicinity, has been the scene of the latest infantry engagements. The Germans attacked the French positions here last night, but were completely repulsed, according to this afternoon's bulletin from Paris the German defeat following the capture yesterday of a German fortified position southwest of the hill. Unofficial reports from Paris point out that despite the tremendous efforts of the Germans the French first line west of the Meuse is still unbroken and that the Germans must score further advances here before they can force the main issue by carrying the battle to the opposite bank of the Meuse, where the Bras-Douaumont-Vaux line continues to bar a direct advance upon the fortress.

Germans Repulsed at Dead Man Hill

Paris, June 1.—The Germans were completely repulsed in an attack delivered upon the French positions at Dead Man Hill, about 8 o'clock last night, according to an official statement issued by the French War Office today. A violent bombardment continued in this region throughout the night. An intense artillery duel is in progress on the east and west fronts at Douaumont.

The text of the statement follows: "On the left bank of the river Meuse the bombardment continued with great violence last night in all the territory around Dead Man Hill. A determined German attack delivered yesterday evening at 8 o'clock against our positions upon the eastern slopes of the hill was completely repulsed by our fire."

"On the right bank of the river the artillery fighting has become exceedingly intense to the west and also to the east of Fort Douaumont."

"The night passed in relative quiet along the remainder of the front."

Last night's report says: "On the left bank of the Meuse, there was a violent bombardment with shells of large calibre in the region of Avocourt and Hill 304."

"In the afternoon in a spirited attack our troops gained possession of a German work, strongly organized on the slopes southwest of Le Mort Homme. We took 220 prisoners, including five officers and captured seven machine guns."

"On the slopes southeast of Le Mort Homme, a surprise attack last night enabled us to capture 25 prisoners."

"On the right bank there was great activity of the two artillery forces between the Meuse and Fort Vaux, but no infantry action."

"Our batteries took under their fire and dispersed enemy concentrations north of the Bois des Fosses. The bombardment was intermittent on the rest of the front more intense in the region east of Metzeral and Hartmannsweilerkopf."

Germans Raid British Line

London, June 1.—The following British official communication was issued this morning:

"Despite the unfavorable weather yesterday (Tuesday), our aeroplanes did good work. Last night the enemy bombarded our trenches about Frécourt north and south of Neuve Chapelle and east of Laventie. The bombardment about Neuve Chapelle was very heavy. It lasted eighty minutes, and was followed by an infantry raid which penetrated our trenches and took some of our men prisoner. The raiding party subsequently was driven out. East of Laventie another raiding party attempted to enter our trenches but was driven back by our bombers."

"During the night the enemy sprang a mine just north of the Bethune-Labassee road, and our troops occupied the near lip of the crater. There was also some unimportant mining activity about Loos."

Today (Wednesday), hostile artillery was active against our positions about Frécourt, Authuille, Souchez, Arras, Neuville-St. Vaast and Loos. Our artillery effectively engaged hostile batteries in the neighborhood of Souchez and Lévain, and bombarded enemy positions south of the Bois Granier. Our trenches about Ypres were shelled intermittently during the day."

Home, via London, June 1.—The official statement from general headquarters reads:

"On the heights north of the Valley of the Lédre and in the Riva zone numerous enemy movements were evident, with unaccustomed activity in defensive work."

"In the Valley of Lagarina, violent enemy attacks were renewed with great bravery, after intense artillery preparation, with guns of large calibre, but were repulsed with the annihilation of the attacking columns. The fighting was fiercest around Col di Biolo, where the gallant infantry of the Sixty-Second Regiment, Stilian brigade, and the 20th Regiment, Taro brigade, repeatedly made sallies from their trenches, pursuing the enemy with the bayonet."

"In the Passable section there was an artillery duel. An enemy attack in the direction of Fort Alti was repulsed."

"Between Possan and the upper Astica the battle is developing, the enemy concentrating particularly in the Astica Valley. We resisted a morning rally in the Campolo zone."

"Further east the concentration of the enemy artillery fire compelled us to evacuate a position on the Monte Pratofo, but a desperate counter attack regained the position for us. Nevertheless, owing to the violent enemy artillery fire our troops withdrew slightly on the southern slopes of the mountain."

"On the plateau of Astago we evacuated Punta Cordin, but continue to withstand the enemy pressure along the remainder of the front."

"In Carina, and on the Isonzo there has been intermittent artillery activity more intense in the upper But and in the San Martino zone. Our infantry made a bold entry into the enemy's lines."

Petrograd, June 1.—The official war report says:

"In the Caucasus region—in the direction of Djaberk—on Sunday, the Turks opened an offensive from the direction of Oghnede on Margahazar, and a portion of their forces occupied Genitra. Our troops took the offensive and ejected them."

FOUR THOUSAND DOLLAR LOSS IN HAMPTON FIRE

A house and barn, the property of Freeman Williams of Hampton, was totally destroyed on Thursday evening by fire, which is believed by neighbors to have been set by tramps. The property was unoccupied and has been vacant for some months, although a great deal of the household furnishings remained in the house. Most of this was saved by volunteer fire fighters but their efforts to check the blaze were unsuccessful, both buildings burning flat to the ground.

The damage is placed at $4000, on the buildings and about three tons of hay was stored in the barn valued at $2000 a ton. The Williams' farm is located outside the village of Hampton, near the North Hampton line. Help was sent from Hampton to assist in saving this and surrounding property but was of little avail, owing to the lack of water. Bucket brigades were formed, lines of men passing the water from wells on the premises and those located on other properties. The fire was discovered about 7:00 o'clock in the evening and by 9:00 o'clock both buildings were totally destroyed. No animals were being kept in the barn at the time of the fire, and most of the farm machinery and wagons were removed before the building burned. It was reported that tramps have been numerous in the section of the fire for some days past and it is believed that some of these may have accidentally started the fire.

AUTO DAMAGED BY COLLISION WITH TROLLEY

A Ford touring car owned and driven by Bert Durant of Hampton, was in collision with the 1100 trolley in-bound car from Hampton on Thursday night at the corner of Middle street and Miller avenue. The right front wheel of the auto being demolished. Mr. Durant in company with one other gentleman, was returning to Hampton from this city and in rounding the corner from Middle street into Miller avenue the car skidded into the big electric car moving around the turn in the opposite direction. Neither of the passengers in the auto were injured in any way and the car was towed to the Portsmouth Motor Mart for repairs. The electric was well fitted at the time with Portsmouth people returning from the beach and the accident created some slight excitement although the crew were able to prevent any panic. The trolley was in charge of Conductor Moulton and Motorman Crady.

MINUTES IN MANHATTAN

New York, June 1.—Standardized "smokes," drugs and "movies" all under one roof in a chain of buildings throughout the United States are the latest dream of Wall Street financiers. The dream will soon be a reality, if trials work out well. Thomas P. Ryan and his group of capitalists are now in financial control of the new $25,000,000 Vitagraph Company, which has absorbed several picture companies and will soon take in others.

This same group controls the great American Tobacco Company and the United Cigar Stores Company, two concerns which are at least on intimate terms. The Cigar Store Company, in turn, now controls the Hitter-Flagman and the Liggett drug stores.

The object of the men behind the consolidation, or alliance, is to cut expenses and produce a service of recognized quality everywhere. Included in the expenses to be cut are $700,000 a year salaries of movie stars.

The orgy of movie salaries has gone on and on until now some of the producing companies are paying out so much in the way that they have hard work making both ends meet.

And along Broadway this news has a rival for public interest in the novel scheme of the scenario writers to hold up the film producers for a "working wage."

The big scenario writers are members of the Authors League of America. The proposal is to make this league a regular trade union and place it under the banner of the American Federation of Labor.

Then when the scenario writers can't get what they want from the producers they will not only add their pens cease moving, but will call out cameramen, merchandisers and other union help of the producers.

The scenario geniuses demand uniform contracts. They also think they ought to get at least 10 per cent of the producers' profits. For instance, on a film netting the producer $35,000 the author would get $3,500, whereas he now receives only $500 to $1,500.

But Winston Churchill, Theodore Roosevelt, Brander Matthews and other authors who are not scenario writers are also members. Mr. Churchill is president and Mr. Roosevelt vice president of the league. Some of the writers of this class are expected to object to being unionized wholesale.

The police as the refuge of the hubby whose wife insists on gambling away her allowance is the latest product of fertile Washington Heights brains.

It seems a group of young married women started a friendly afternoon poker game among themselves. It was very quiet and all that at first and the limit was ten cents.

Hubbies raised their eyebrows but said little. Then the "girl" began to get reckless. The ten cent limit was dashed aside. Many and many a young wife returned to her little flat and reported herself "broke."

The furor spread. Promises to pay an invention of the devil himself were introduced by some wife whose husband is in Wall Street.

Oh, yes, there was also a "kitty." It repaid the woman holding the session for expenses and damage, if any.

There was a hubbies' mass meeting. The next quiet little wives' gathering was startled by the announcement: "The police are at the door."

Chips and money were quickly swept into hiding places.

The police were very gentlemanly. "We are just seeing that no law is being violated, ladies. Of course, you know, ladies, 'kitties' are not allowed."

Then they departed and the game went on, but without quite its accustomed zest.

The next day, in another home, the same thing happened.

It was very annoying, really. The police just stood around and did no more harm than a well disciplined butler.

But it looked bad. Attendance at the games, as the days went by and the police remained steady visitors, diminished quickly and finally fell to zero.

It is remarkable how many Washington Heights policemen are smoking big cigars of the quarter each kind when off duty.

BAKER PRAISES WILSON TO OHIO DEMOCRATS

Columbus, Ohio, June 1.—"His has been the one sane and serene spirit which will redeem this age; and when the election comes it will be found that the people of America, whatever their sympathies in the European struggle, realize that the one indispensable expense of the mind, the friendliness and the ideals of America in the remaking of the old order in the Old World, is the finest type produced in this age by the new order in the New World—Woodrow Wilson."

In these words, Newton D. Baker, Secretary of War, paid tribute to President Wilson at the Democratic State Convention here today.

Mr. Baker took up the achievements of the administration in detail, predicting that on account of them his party will be successful at the polls next November. These achievements were, he said:

1. The Federal Reserve Bank law.
2. The proposed rural credit bill.
3. The Underwood tariff.
4. The Constitutional Amendment providing for direct election of senators.
5. The Federal Trade Commission.
6. The proposed shipping bill.
7. Measures under consideration for the conservation of natural resources and their development.
8. The proposed national child labor law.

He said the Republican party is no longer held together by a consistent and single theory of national policy and "to speak of a man as a Republican today identifies him with no cause, ascribes to him no opinion."

Critics of the administration's foreign policy are divided, he said, into a group who think it has been too strenuous and another group declaring it too peace-loving, and he added: "And then there is a third group, headed by the Great Detractor, who, shifting from position to position on the nation's foreign policy, selects at each time apparently whatever advantage point seems to offer an opportunity for making difficult the position of the President and the Congress."

Mr. Baker was very moderate in his praise of the measures of the administration for building up the army and navy. He said the army bill "provides an experiment in federalizing the militia of the states."

He is survived by his mother, Mrs. Mary E. D. Preston; a sister, Mrs. Phil Provencher, and a brother, Charles E. Preston of Berwick.

20 YEARS FOR WOMAN POISONER

MRS. OAKLEY IS SENTENCED IN PROVIDENCE CREAM PUFF MURDER CASE.

Providence, R. I., June 1.—Mrs. Oakley pleaded guilty to murder in the second degree today and was sentenced to 20 years in the state prison.

Druggist Causes Defence Collapse
The plea of guilty by Mrs. Oakley came after the state had produced Herbert L. Mills, a druggist in Woonsocket, who testified that she had purchased two ounces of arsenic in his store on the day before the murder.

Mrs. Oakley was charged with the murder of Armand Vadeboncoeur by placing arsenic in cream puffs which she sent by mail to Harry Cassavant her lover, who she believed was about to cast her off. These puffs were eaten by both Vadeboncoeur and Cassavant. Vadeboncoeur died and Cassavant will be a paralytic for life.

QUIETLY WEDDED AT PARENTS' HOME THURSDAY EVENING

MISS BEATRICE HARTFORD BE-COMES THE BRIDE OF MR.
ALEXANDER W. SCAR-
BOROUGH OF BOSTON.

Miss Beatrice Elizabeth Hartford, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Hartford of this city, became the bride of Mr. Alexander William Scarborough of Boston, on Thursday evening, at the home of her parents on Miller avenue. The wedding was one of the prettiest home weddings seen in this city although it was very quiet, none but the immediate families of the parties and a few intimate friends being present.

Miss Hartford made a charming bride and she was given in marriage by her father, the couple were unattended. The ceremony was performed in the living room of the home which was beautifully decorated with apple blossoms and hollyhock; and was performed by the Rev. Dr. Lucius H. Thayer, pastor of the North Church Parish. Miss Hartford was given in white Georgette crepe over plain white tulle and carried a bouquet of lilies of the valley.

Following the ceremony a reception was held by the young couple in the reception hall which was decorated throughout with hollyhock and white lilies, the hollyhock completely concealing the stair balustrades and woodwork in the hall. A wedding supper was served in the dining room, this room having been decorated with pink Killarney roses; the supper being catered by Mr. Haywood Burton. The ceremony took place at 6:00 o'clock in the evening and the young couple left, followed by the heartiest of good wishes for their future happiness, for a short wedding tour. On their return from their honeymoon Mr. and Mrs. Scarborough will make their home in Portland, Maine. Among those present were members of the family and guests from Fall River, Lynnfield, Weymouth, Massachusetts, and Concord, Manchester and this city.

The case of Robert J. Ballard of this city vs the Electric and Hampton Electric Company a suit for $10,000 damage for alleged negligence which caused him an injury by an electric shock at Hampton on August 2, 1915, was continued in superior court at Exeter on Thursday, the most important witness being the plaintiff himself. He was examined by Attorney William H. Sleeper, and given a long cross-examination by Geo. T. Hughes of Dover, one of the counsel for the defense.

The case is progressing slowly and it is doubtful if the jury gets it before late today.

CORNERSTONE OF NEW ARMY-NAVY HOME LAID

Brief Informal Ceremonies
Held by Officers of the Association.

At 2 o'clock this afternoon in the presence of the officers of the Army and Navy and Seaman's Aid Society, the cornerstone was laid with brief ceremony, it being decided by the officers that it was best to have but one function; the dedication, where all our people could then see and inspect the building. In the corner stone in a steel chest was a history of the undertaking, copies of the local newspapers, copies of the Portsmouth book, and several other documents of local interest.

WILL BE HERE AT DEDICATION

Secretary Daniels to Assist in Opening Exercises of Army and Navy Home.

Secretary of the Navy Hon. Josephus Daniels, who is no stranger in Portsmouth, has promised the committee of the Army and Navy Home for Enlisted Men, that he will be present at the dedication of the building, which is expected to take place some time this fall or winter. Besides the secretary, the committee will make arrangements for the presence of other leading men of the state and navy. On this account the committee thought best to make the laying of the corner stone, informal and make the dedication a big event. Regardless of the numerous delays which have handicapped the builders, they are making rapid progress on the construction and will not be far behind the date set for completion.

IKE HOME ON A VISIT

Ike Evans who has been on the road with the Uncle Tom's Cabin company is home for a few days taking a much needed rest following a busy season on the road. Ike had charge of the bloodhounds and also played an important part before the footlights. He says the company will give out of door performances during the heated season under a canvas and already have several bookings through Maine and other states. Ike will return shortly to his many duties with the troupe, with an increase in salary and more authority in the several positions which he has filled. He is decidedly pleased with the life of an actor.

HIGH IN QUALITY—LOW IN PRICE

Yesterday we spoke of our twenty-dollar suits. Today we will "take up" the fifteen dollar ones. We show former seasons' values in fabrics in this line having "protected" ourselves against the rise in price by placing our orders for spring very early last fall. The models are "twenty dollar styles," therefore the fact is clear that these suits are actually bargains.
